

CHRISSEY ANGLIKER

Ocean Swim II* (2020), Acrylic on canvas, 76 x 76 x 2cm

Artist Statement

The focus of Chrissy Angliker's work lies in creating a balanced relationship between the controllable and uncontrollable. Chrissy depicts that concept through the relationship she is cultivating with her medium of paint. For every intentional mark, the nature of the medium is challenging it. The artist is searching for a sense of grace in the transition between these two opposing elements. The theme of her work arose from her feeling of life itself being a balance between control and chaos. "As people, we have intentions, but must anticipate the intervention of outside forces beyond our power." The finished paintings capture the relationship created by aiming to balance these extremes to capture a whole, and frank representation of the subject.

Chrissy Angliker is a Brooklyn-based Swiss/American artist who regularly shows in both her native and adopted countries. She was born in Zurich and raised in Greifensee and Winterthur. Chrissy's artistic inclinations emerged at an early age. Beginning in 1996 she was fortunate to study with the Russian artist Juri Borodatchev, who became her artistic mentor for several years. In 1999 at age 16, Chrissy moved to the US to study Fine Art at the Walnut Hill School in Natick, Mass. In 2002, Chrissy had her first solo show at Gallery Juri in Winterthur, Switzerland. Seeking to broaden her means of expression, she then pursued a degree in Industrial Design at the Pratt Institute in New York. After spending her post-graduate years working in the design field, Chrissy shifted her creative expression back to painting in 2008. Her art is focused on visually translating her perception of herself in relationship to the world. Chrissy's work has been shown in Europe and the US, and has been featured in several international publications. She has been commissioned to collaborate with several companies, among AOL, Burton and Wired Magazine. Her most recent solo show, "Bodies of Water", was held at the Swiss Consulate in New York.
